"THE MENNONITES"

Their Settlement in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania.

- - - - - -

George Dallas Albert, in his History of Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, published in the year 1882, gives the following sketch of the Mennonites, and their Settlement in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania.

"The Mennonite Church is one of the fragments into which the mother-church of Rome was shivered by reforming hands in the Middle Agod, and is accordingly one of the many Protestant sects. The founder of the Mennonite---more preferably "Mennonist"--- sect was Menno Simon, who was in Friesland in 1495 or '96, three years after the discovery of America by Columbus. He was contemporary with Luther, Zwinglius, Bucer, Calvin, Bullinger, and Melancthon. His doctrines were accepted by great numbers, who became persecuted, and largely dispersed into Prussia, Poland, Denmark, Holland, and Russia.

In 1683 a number of Mennonist families came to America and settled in and about Germantown(now Philadelphia), and at subsequent times other bodies of them came and located near the original settlement.

In 1736 five hundred settled in Lancaster County, and from this region they gradually dispersed into various States.

In the last part of the 18th Century the first Mennonite families settled in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, and as years rolled by its settlement received several additions from the eastern hives. With an eye to plenty and prosperity, the Mennonist pioneers settled in East Huntingdon Township, Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, one of the most beautiful and fertile section of the County, at the same time, one rich in minerals.

In the same valley, but across Jacobs Creek, and in Fayette County, another settlement of Mennonists came. To this settlement came principally Lancaster County families, while to West Overton, Westmoreland County, came generally families from Bucks County.

Among the subscribers to "The Christian Confession of Mennonis Faith", published at Philadelphia in 1727, occur the surnames, Kolb, Ziegler, Gorgas, Conorads, Hirchi, Bear, Bowman, Langenecker, Boghtly. These surnames are to be found in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, with such phonetic changes as point unmistakably to their derivation from the former. The Kolb has become Culp and Galp; Ziegler, Zigler; Conorad, Coonrad; Hirchi, Harshey and Hershoy; Langenecker, Longnecker. In other documents occur the surnames Oberholtzer, now Oberholt; Kendigs, now Kintig; Miller, Funk, Bowman still the same in the County.

In the original list of subscribers to the Confession of Faith of the Mennonists, "done and finished in our united churches in the city of Dortrecht, 21st April, A.D.,1632," occur the surnames Jacobs, Willisemson, now Williamson; Winkelmans, now Winkleman; Zimmerman, now the same, or translated into Carpenter; Shoemaker, now Shoe-,Shu-, and Shoenmaker Moyers, now the same, or Meyer,Meyers; Koenig, now King; Bom, now Baum; Claeson, now Clawson; Peterson, now Peterson; Segerts, now about the same; Haus, now pronounced Houtz; op de Graff, now Updegraff. Thus, the connection is shown between the Westmoreland Mennonists of the latter half of the nineteenth century and the Dortrecht, Utrecht, Leyden, Rotterdam, and Amsterdam Mennonists of more than two hundred years ago.

In the County of Westmoreland, Pennsylvania, the sect is on the decline. At one time their communicants were numbered here by hundreds, while now, (1882) there are less than forty. The Mennonist Church is in East Huntingdon Township, about midway in a line running north and south between West Overton and Bethany, and about midway in a line running east and west between Mount Pleasant and Reagantown. Its last minister was John Overholt, who resided on the eastern flank of the hilly range that farther North in the County is the well-defined Randolph or Dry Ridge.

Since their settlement here the Mennonists have been distinguished for their moral worth, thrift, industry, and intelligence, and no portion of the county excels the part originally settled by them and still almost entirely owned and occupied by their numerous and forehanded descendants.

Their first Church Building here was a log structure, built in the year 1800, on the extreme lower corner of the graveyard. In 1840 it was replaced by the present substantial brick edifice. The first pastors were Revs. David Funk, Stauffer and Wolty, after whom were Henry Yetter, Martin Loucks, and John Overholt. For a great many years(1882) it has had no regular pastors, but has been supplied occasionally by ministers from a distance, perhaps as often as once a month. The membership is quite small, as in the past two decades many have connected themselves with the Church of God and the United Brethren in Christ. The Cemetery is now controlled by the Mennonite Cemetery Association, organized a few years ago."

Those names most prominent of the first Mennonite people here were the Stauffers' and Shorricks', who came here from Lancaster County,Pennsylvania, in 1790. The Loucks' & Frotts' followed in 1800, from Bucks County. Other families who came with these and later on are the Tinsmans',Overholts,Stoners,Funks, Rists,Rosenbergers,Strohms,Dillingers,Fox,Shollenbergers,Basslers, Strickler,Ruth,Myers,Durstine,Lane,Shupe,Mumaw,Shelly,Bare,Landis, & Bachtels.

"The Stoner Family, for whom, the village "Stonerville" was named".

"The ancestor of the Stoner Family in this County, came from Switzerland in the middle of the seventeenth century, landed at Philadelphia, and settled in Chester County, Penna. He subsequently moved to Morrison's Cove, in Bedford County. His son Christian, born in Chester County, came to East Huntingdon Township in 1799 from Bedford County, where he had lived several years. Here, near Stonerville, he purchased five-hundred acres of land, now(1882) in four farms. Hobias Landis now lives on the old Stoner homestead, the other three parts being owned by the grandsons of Christian,viz: Adam Stoner, Christian Stoner, and Solomon Stoner; there being a few small sub-divisions besides. He died in 1814, and his wife, Barbara, in 1816. Of this land, when he came, one Chundred acres had been put in cultivation by previous owners and had a cabin on it, the remainder being in the woods. His neighbors were Abraham Ruth on the West, George Munew on Southeast, and Rev. David Funk on East.

Abraham Ruth's children were John, Abraham, Barbara, married to John Werts, Elizabeth, married to Christian Shorrick, Christian, Jacob, Daniel(the first born in this county, the others having been born before their parents' arrival here), Henry, Anna, married to John Rudebaugh(Rumbaugh), and David. Of these, the eldest, John, was born in June, 1787, and was married October 11, 1811, to Magdalena Fox, daughter of Henry Fox. He died August 7, 1868, and his wife April 21, 1858, in her sixty-eighth year. Their children were Elizabeth, born 1814, and married to David Funk, grandson of the Mennonite preacher; Henry W., born 1816; John H., born 1818; Mary, born 1821; and married to David Funk; she dying, he married her sister Elizabeth; Jacob F., born 1823; Adam, born 1826; Christian F., born 1828; Anna, born 1830, and married to David Landis; and Magdalena, born 1833, and married to Rev. Reuben H. Bolton.

The locality settled by the Stoner family was early called "the Stoner settlement", and the name STONERVILLE was given to the village, in recognition of this family, so prominent in the region since 1799.

"STONERVILLE"

Now, Alverton, Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania.

"Stonerville, a station on the South Penn Railroad, is on parts of the old tracts of land owned by Matthias Camp and Henry Fox. In 1800, when there was no building on the site of the present town, the Mennonite Congregation purchased of Mr. Camp an acre and one-half of ground, on which the same year they erected a log meeting-house, a school house, and laid out a grave-yard. This was the first start of the place. Shortly afterwards Christian Stoner erected a saw-mill, and fulling-mill on land purchased of Joseph Fulkerth. He also put up a cabinet-maker's shop and made coffins, being the first undertaker in the township. Next was the erection of a log house on the old State Road, on the Fulkerth land, east of the Railroad, which was built through the town in 1872. The opening of the railroad was the beginning of the place, which before was hardly a hamlet. That year, Hurst, Stoner & Company, composed of Braden Hurst, B.B.Stoner, Mr. Shaw, and W.B. Neal, established their coke-works, now(1882) having seventy ovens. They laid out thirty lots along the state road. Their firm is the same now, but their partners are Braden Hurst, with Messrs Rafferty & McClure. The next year, S.Warden & Company opened their coke-works and built twenty company buildings for their workmen.

The first physician here was the present Practitioner, Dr. J.E.Rigg, who located here in 1875.

The State Road from Mount Pleasant to Smith's Ferry, passed by the site of Stonerville.

About one mile west, a Mr. Koggy kept tavern several years before 1800, when Rev. David Funk purchased the place.

The Post-office was established June 1,1877, and Braden Hurst appointed Post-master, who still holds the office in 1882.

The present stores(1882) are kept by J.J.Hurst & Company, and William A.Byers, and the grocery by E.H. Trout."

The name of "Stonerville" has since been changed to ALVERTON,WESTMORELAND COUNTY,PENNSYLVANIA.

MENNONITE CEMETERY ASSOCIATION

Alverton, Pennsylvania.

- - - - -

The old Cemetery still retains it's original name, "The Mennonite Cemetery Association".

The old Mennonite Church has been torn down, and that portion of the ground sold to the County, on which is erected a brick school building.
The communicants of the Mennonite Church, either have united with the Alverton Church of God, or with the Mennonite Congregation of Scottdale, Pennsylvania, a few miles distant.

Following is a copy of an article printed in Mount Pleasant Journal, as of February 1st, 1946.

"The lot holders of the Mennonite Cemetery Association of Alverton, Pennsylvania(East Huntingdon Township, Westmoreland County), met Saturday afternoon and elected three directors for three-year terms as follows:-James F. Loucks, Warren H. Eicher, and Carl S. Stoner.

An Alverton community committee made a number of recommendations to the directors for the betterment of the cemetery, including a request for a new superintendent who will be responsible to the people and the Board of Directors; the setting aside of a week in the early spring for voluntoer help under the supervision of the Board in order to have high grasses, weeds and briers cut, making available names and addresses of lot holders and a list of endowed lots, and arrangements for other disposition of ground in the lower part next to Route 119.

Two committees, sponsored by the W.C.T.U., have been working and conferring on ways and means of better cemetery care. The committee members are:- Ida Hickernell, Chairman; Mrs Warren H. Eicher, and Pearl DePriest. W.S.Hensel, Chairman; William Hill, William D.Davis, Cadet Shirer and James Byers".
